Brief Biography of the Honoree

Professor Dr. Victor Dan Eugen Strâmbu is a distinguished figure in medical science and the Romanian academic community, with a long-standing and multifaceted contribution to General Surgery, medical education, and public health.

He currently serves as Dean of the “Dr. Carol Davila” Faculty of Midwifery and Nursing in Bucharest. At the same time, he holds the positions of General Director of the “Dr. Carol Davila” General Hospital and Professor and Department Head at the Carol Davila University of Medicine and Pharmacy.

Throughout his career, he has demonstrated outstanding administrative leadership, having twice served as State Secretary (Deputy Minister) of Health of Romania, as well as General Director of the “Saint Pantelimon” Clinical Emergency Hospital.

As a Senior Consultant in General Surgery, he possesses extensive expertise in Surgical Oncology, Laparoscopic Surgery, and Emergency Pre-Hospital Medicine. His research activities span a broad spectrum, ranging from clinical practice to molecular biology.

His leadership is equally evident in his scientific and professional service. He serves as the elected President of the Romanian Society of Surgery, is a founding member of several specialized medical organizations, and actively participates on the editorial boards of prestigious medical journals.

The international scientific community has repeatedly recognized his contributions to innovation and surgical research. Among his most notable distinctions are his appointment as a Knight of the Order of Sanitary Merit in 2019 and the award of Gold Medals at the International Exhibition of Inventions of Geneva and by INVENTIKA for the development of pioneering medical equipment.

We kindly request that this event be published, broadcast, and covered by the media.
